James Lyles, M.D.
Hand Surgeon

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Dr. James Lyles completed his undergraduate at the University of Rochester in New York and received his Medical Doctorate at State University of New York. He completed a General Surgery Residency at New York Presbyterian Hospital and completed a Hand and Microsurgery fellowship at Christine M. Kleinert Institute for Hand and Microsurgery in Louisville.

Dr. Lyles specializes in the surgical and non-surgical treatment of injuries and disorders of the hand, wrist, and elbow. Common conditions include: carpal and cubital tunnel syndrome, nerve compression and tendon injuries, fracture management, tendonitis, trigger finger, tennis and golfer's elbow, and Dupuytren's contracture.

Dr. Lyles sees patients at our Bettendorf and Davenport clinics.

Our physicians are board-certified and have sub-specialty fellowship training.
